

Computer-based testing services for clients worldwide

The British Council is a highly trusted partner, providing access to world-class qualifications for more than 75 years. Committed to integrity, security and fairness, we are a world leader in the delivery of 4.5 million high-stakes exams in over 140 countries worldwide.

Our extensive experience and global network make us the ideal partner to support your transition from pen and paper to computer-based testing (CBT). Get in touch for advice on:

- the best roll-out strategy for your CBT
- how to get the right venue for your exams
- which CBT platform is right for you
- which delivery model will work best for you and your candidates
- how to expand your existing CBT into new international markets.

'The British Council's global experience of delivering exams using their qualified staff has meant that the strong relationship between the university and the British Council continues. The British Council has been pivotal in not only supporting us in the delivery of pen and paper exams but also computer-based testing in some of the remotest and most challenging of locations.'

David J Kelly, Student and Alumni Director, Edinburgh Business School and Heriot-Watt University

'Working with the British Council has been a pleasure. They have been quick to respond to our ever-changing business needs. The British Council has been a key international testing market partner for ACT on whom we trust and can rely.'

Shane King, Senior Director Global Channel, ACT, Inc.
